HÉLÈNE CARRÈRE D'ENCAUSSE

This is the story of an exceptional and little-known woman: Alexandra Kollontaï. The first female minister in History.

› ALEXANDRA KOLLONTAÏ

ALEXANDRA KOLLONTAÏ

Born in St. Petersburg in 1872, Alexandra Kollontaï participated in the revolution in 1905, then joined the Bolsheviks' ranks and was part of Lenin's first government as Commissar for Welfare. In discovering these previously unseen archives, Hélène Carrère d'Encausse retraces the amazing story of this strong woman, brilliant politician, and the only one to live through half a century of Russia's tumultuous history in this way.

JULIA KRISTEVA

Vibrant osmosis and tonic vigilance, Julia Kristeva's oratorio deciphers a whole and new Dostoyevsky, galvanized by language.

› DOSTOÏEVSKI. FACE À LA MORT
OU LE SEXE HANTÉ DU LANGAGE

DOSTOYEVSKY: FACED WITH DEATH OR THE HAUNTED SEX OF LANGUAGE

This book unveils a surprising reading of the "great Russian." His extravagant characters, oscillating between pathetic monstrosity and "insect-like" insignificance, foresaw the penal matrix of the totalitarian universe that was revealed in the Holocaust and the Gulag, and continues to threaten today through the technique's omnipresence. The man and his work enter the third millennium where finally, "everything is allowed."

MARIA POURCHET

A vivacious, powerful, and funny novel about love, which is terrifyingly more serious and dangerous than one might think.

› FEU

FIRE

Laure is a university professor, is married, has two daughters, and owns her home. At 40 years of age, she seems to be at the height – not of her desires – but of effort and compromise. 50-year-old Clément is single. Up in his glass tower, he's weary of finance, the view, and YouPorn. She's hoping that life has a surprise in store. He's waiting for it to be over. They will be a shock to one another's systems.

BAPTISTE BEAULIEU

With poetry and originality, Baptiste Beaulieu weaves the fantastic fate of two beings whose cracks align with one another as if by magic.

› CELLE QU'IL ATTENDAIT

THE ONE HE WAS AWAITING

Eugénie D's is overflowing with strange and eccentric ideas that allow her to take refuge from a world that scares her. She knows that men are quick to clip a woman's wings. Joséphin, a mute taxi driver, was born in a country at war. He carries his skinny frame and distrust for mankind everywhere he goes. To keep melancholy thoughts at bay, he devotes his time to ceramics. Their lives are turned upside down when they cross paths on a train platform. An improbable encounter and a timeless love story.

› LA MUSE ROUGE

THE RED MUSE

Paris 1920. The atmosphere in the capital city is electric, between constant strikes and clashes between communists and anarchists on one side and royalists on the other. Given the context, the successive murders of several prostitutes aren't likely to make headlines. Until it isn't a lady of the night, but a client, an official representative of the Republic of China, who is found dead in a brothel.
