47 STRINGS (PART 1)

One day, a metamorph falls in love with a young man named Ambroise. She can change form whenever she wants, but wonders what face and identity to adopt to conquer her prey... Unaware of her obsession and true nature, Ambroise seeks to gain legitimacy in the orchestra that he has just joined as a harpist. Then he meets Francesca Forabosco, a renowned singer who offers him a deal: in exchange for the harp of his dreams, Ambroise must rise to 47 challenges. One failure, and he can kiss the instrument goodbye...

AFTER THE CRASH

For the last 18 years, Crédule has sought the identity of the baby who survived the crash on December 23, 1980. Two families lay claim to her: the Carvilles, a bourgeois family, and the Vitral, who sell French fries. The courts eventually entrust her to the Vitral family. Hired by the Carvilles, the detective sets out on the investigation of his lifetime. But it was all for nothing. Just as he's about to pull the trigger, he looks one last time at the front page of the newspaper from that era... and suddenly understands.

BIG BEAK

Like every morning, Albert Big Beak was tying his necktie in front of the mirror. And like every morning, he was depressed by what he saw. "My beak is so big," he thought to himself. He inspected it from every angle, and the more he looked at it, the bigger it seemed. Have you ever heard of Bruno Hoof-Beak, Lucette Avocet, or Arnaud Scissor-Beak? Neither had Albert Big Beak. And yet, meeting them might help him to rid himself of his beak complex once and for all.

TANANARIVE

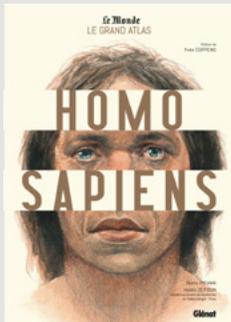

After a neat and cautious existence, a retired notary will head off on an adventure for the first time in his life. A relatively small adventure, but a veritable odyssey in his eyes. As fast as his old bones can carry him, he heads off to track down a hypothetical heir, at the wheel of a coupe that has never left his garage and alongside a strange passenger. He will discover that it's never too late to learn about others... and yourself.

LE GRAND ATLAS HOMO SAPIENS

THE HOMO SAPIENS ATLAS

Developed with the Monde and the Libreria Geografica, this initiative – the first geographical atlas of the human population on Earth – was made possible thanks to the research of Telmo Pievani, a world-renowned philosopher and evolutionist, and Valéry Zeitoun, a member of the Center for Research in Paleontology and a specialist of phylogenetics and prehistorical cultures in southeast Asia. Here, they share the story of our ancestors and their migration routes over the course of 2 million years.
