HAMIT BOZARSLAN

Hamit Bozarslan paints a portrait of the similarities of three regimes at the heart of international news: Iran, Russia, and Turkey.

› L'ANTI-DÉMOCRATIE AU XXI<sup>E</sup> SIÈCLE :
IRAN, RUSSIE, TURQUIE

ANTI-DEMOCRACY IN THE 21ST CENTURY IRAN, RUSSIA, TURKEY

The authoritarian and liberticidal regimes that hide behind these supposed democracies have many points in common: the cult of an infallible leader invested with a historical mission, the desire for revenge against a corrupting West, the mobilization of religion, the organization of a parallel State... A stunning dive into the heart of the radicalization logic of authoritarian regimes, this cutting comparison is a powerful warning for our self-doubting democracies.

ANNE-CAROLINE PRÉVOT

Let's experience nature: a book to rebuild and repair social ties through attention to the environment.

› LA NATURE À L'ŒIL NU

NATURE WITH THE NAKED EYE

Populations that are in direct contact with nature see little point in naming it. This is unlike Westerners, of whom the majority are urban, who need a word to designate it. But when we say "nature," what are we talking about? Anne-Caroline Prévot investigates our multiple relationships with nature and proposes to reconnect us to it, by all possible means, even if it means mobilizing science fiction to imagine and ultimately build desirable futures for all.

MAURICE GODELIER

Maurice Godelier revisits the prohibition of incest in history and society, using anthropology to shed light on this social reality.

› L'INTERDIT DE L'INCESTE
À TRAVERS LES SOCIÉTÉS

THE TABOO OF INCEST ACROSS SOCIETIES

What is incest? Is it universally prohibited? What role does it play in kinship systems? Does the prohibition of incest mark the passage from nature to culture? How can one explain the continuing tension between proclaimed prohibition and an ongoing and pervasive incestuous practice? Here, the author sticks to the fundamentals to clearly and persuasively apply the teachings of anthropology to these questions.

FRANÇOIS-XAVIER FAUVELLE

A lively introduction to the history of Africa and its issues.

› PENSER L'HISTOIRE DE L'AFRIQUE

THINKING ABOUT THE HISTORY OF AFRICA

Retracing a research journey that took him from South Africa to Morocco via Ethiopia, François-Xavier Fauvelle highlights the incredible richness of the history of ancient and medieval Africa. He points out the challenges of fragmentary documentation, which implies the use of archaeological digs, ancient writings, oral traditions, and contemporary customs from the past, all while deconstructing representations inherited from centuries of slavery and then colonialism.

BONPOTE
ANNE BRÈS
CLAIRE MARC

A clear and concise graphic novel to learn all about the issues at play in climate change with the most up-to-date scientific data.

↳ TOUT COMPRENDRE (OU PRESQUE)
SUR LE CLIMAT

UNDERSTANDING EVERYTHING (OR ALMOST) ABOUT THE CLIMATE

As the reality of climate change is becoming increasingly tangible and as climatologists concur that there is no doubt regarding humans' responsibility in it, global warming skeptics continue to spread erroneous information. The fight against this misinformation is essential. Underneath the seemingly light graphic style, this comic covers the fundamental issues and reflects what we really know about climate change, as well as how this knowledge came to be.
