Calmann-Lévy

Calmann-Lévy

Founded in 1836, is one of the oldest French publishers. Responsible for bringing acclaim to popular fiction with such authors as Balzac, Flaubert, Hugo and Stendhal, in the XXth century it turned to non-fiction and essays publishing in French works as Anne Frank: The Diary of a Young Girl and Darkness at Noon by Arthur Koestler. Today, Calmann-Lévy is a popular trade publisher, with a varied and eclectic list of authors including Guillaume Musso, Pierre Lemaitre, Laurent Gounelle, Michael Connelly, Donna Leon, Donato Carrisi, Yann Queffélec, Marie-Bernadette Dupuy, Greta Thunberg and Antony Beevor, in a wide variety of genres such as French and foreign fiction, literature, detective novels, essays and key documents.

Since 2018, Calmann-Lévy is the third French publisher of General Litterature.

Several books published by Calmann-Lévy have been adapted to TV and cinema.

GUILLAUME MUSSO

*Feverish, surprising, thrilling:
 a labyrinth of emotions where nothing is certain from one

ANGÉLIQUE

Christmas 2021, Paris. Matthias Taillefer wakes up in the hospital after a heart attack. A stranger is sitting by his bed playing the cello. Her name is Louise Collange, a student volunteer who plays for the patients. When she learns that Matthias is a cop, she asks him to take on a special case. Hesitant at first, he finally agrees to help her. Thus begins an extraordinary investigation where the secret resides in the life we might have lived, the love we might have known, the place we hope to find...

INTUITIO

Timothy Fisher, a young crime writer, leads a quiet life in New York. When two FBI agents appear at his door and ask him to help arrest the country's most wanted man, he assumes it's a joke. But after initially rejecting them, he accepts their strange offer to join a secret program that trains people to access their intuition at any moment. Initially skeptical, Timothy begins a race against time that leads him to master this power that is both unknown and accessible to all.
