CHILDREN'S BOOKS

A SELECTION OF FRENCH TITLES

Promoting French publishing around the world

For almost 140 years, BIEF has been promoting French publishers' creations on the international scene with the vocation of facilitating and developing exchange between French and foreign professionals in the publishing industry.

This catalogue presents 33 publishing houses and over 150 titles. It is intended as both a working and reference tool for all those interested in children's books published in France, especially foreign publishers, booksellers and librarians keen to build their list of translated and/or adapted works in this sector.

This catalogue was created to promote the discovery of the great variety in and the high quality of children's publishing in France, to help publishers, booksellers and librarians strengthen existing ties with their French counterparts.

The Future Is In Your Hands

Demain entre tes mains

Cyril Dion, Pierre Rabhi,
Costume 3 pièces,
Actes Sud Junior, 2017

Why do we always want more? More money to buy more things, more clothes... Do we really need all these things to be happy? This book questions man's attitude towards nature, his constant need to get richer. Cyril Dion's illustrations together with the words of farmer-philosopher Pierre Rabhi, try to make children understand the harshness of the world today and the issues governing it, while encouraging them to create the future they hope for by taking action. A book that raises hope, reminding us that it's up to each one of us to create our own lives and change things because The Future is in Your Hands.

*Un jour, dit la légende, il y eut un immense incendie de forêt.
Tous les animaux terrifiés et atterrés observaient, impuissants, le désastre.
Seul le petit colibri s'active, allant
chercher quelques gouttes d'eau dans son bec pour les jeter sur le feu.
Au bout d'un moment, le tatou, agacé
par ses agissements dérisoires, lui dit :
"Colibri ! Tu n'es pas fou ? Ce n'est pas avec ces gouttes d'eau que tu vas éteindre le feu !
- Je le sais, répond le colibri, mais je fais ma part."*

The Whowhat and the Strange Attack of the Giant Sunburn

Les Quiquoi et l'étrange attaque du coup de soleil géant

Laurent Rivelaygue,
Olivier Tallec,
Actes Sud Junior,
Collection Les Quiquoi, 2017

Olive has drawn a giant sun. Now, her friends are too hot. A fan blows in cold air but it's too powerful and blows Pamela's hat off... poor Raoul, is clinging to a parasol. The friends chase the hat into a cactus forest in the burning sun and under the threat of a nasty sunburn. But thanks to a giant tube of sunscreen and their ingenuity, the Whowhats will successfully thwart the attack. 4 titles in the series.

I'm Addicted to Screens!

Je suis accro aux écrans!

Muzo,
Actes Sud Junior,
Collection Les Petits tracas
de Théo et Léa, 2017

The Little Ups and Downs of Theo and Lea series: Muzo's sense of fun is at its finest in these little comics that help kids understand how their emotions work, giving them – and their parents – the keys to harmonious development. In I'm Addicted to Screens! Theo has been glued to the TV since he came home from school. His mother finally convinces him to have his snack, but on the way, he grabs his sister's tablet out of her hands. Theo finds tapping on a screen a lot more fun than kicking a ball around. When he secretly uses his dad's smartphone and computer, he loses all screen privileges for a week. He's left with nothing to do but go out to play and in fact his friends are happy to see him again. Screens are fun, but you have to know when to stop!

A Question of Intelligence

Question d'intelligence

Florence Pinaud,
Séverine Assous,
Actes Sud Junior 2017

A book to answer the questions children ask about intelligence, reassure them and sweep away certain preconceived notions! Even if scientists don't know everything about how the brain works, one thing is certain: intelligence doesn't mean the same thing to everyone. For some people, it's the capacity to understand and solve a math problem, for others, it's making clever or witty observations... What do we really know about intelligence? This book starts off with 15 questions we have all asked about intelligence and gives clear answers, statistics, contexts, tests... Everything you need to know to correct misconceptions about intelligence.

The Great Expedition

La grande expédition

Clémence Dupont,
L'Agrume,
Collection Jeunesse, 2017

This scientific accordion book about our planet unfolds out to over 8 meters. Each page shows a period in Earth's history and includes a short text. The book starts with a post Big-Bang landscape covered with volcanoes and meteorites. Then life appears. Organisms populate the waters, as continents emerge and come together. The Earth evolves: plants, ferns, scaled fish, starfish, amphibians and reptiles enter the scene. Later pages show the ages where giant mammals die out and humans appear...

Aurélie Pollet, Vincent Bergier,
L'Agrume,
Collection Jeunesse, 2017

Are you ready? We're off to New York City! An incredible and wonderful place, especially at night when everything becomes possible: a rocket taking off, a superhero flying over skyscrapers, King Kong, Superman or Darth Vader wandering the streets, a UFO coming in for a landing... If you want to go back to the calm of day, just lift the blue film that's covers the images. What looked like a UFO turns out to be the Guggenheim Museum; King Kong, a tree in Central Park; Darth Vader, the statue of liberty...

The Mountain

La montagne

Anne-Hélène Dubray,
L'Agrume,
Collection Jeunesse, 2017

The mountain is the constant in this book, it witnesses the evolution of time. At first it is surrounded by lush nature, but then across the pages, it watches as many changes take place around it. It will witness the disappearance of the dinosaurs; the appearance of megafauna and the great apes standing up on their hind legs leading to the appearance of man, and its evolution from a small village subsistence existence to an urbanized civilization that keeps on spreading. Wild life is now hiding at the top of the mountain. A colorful and highly detailed book that takes us through time.

Jane Austen's Imaginary Museum

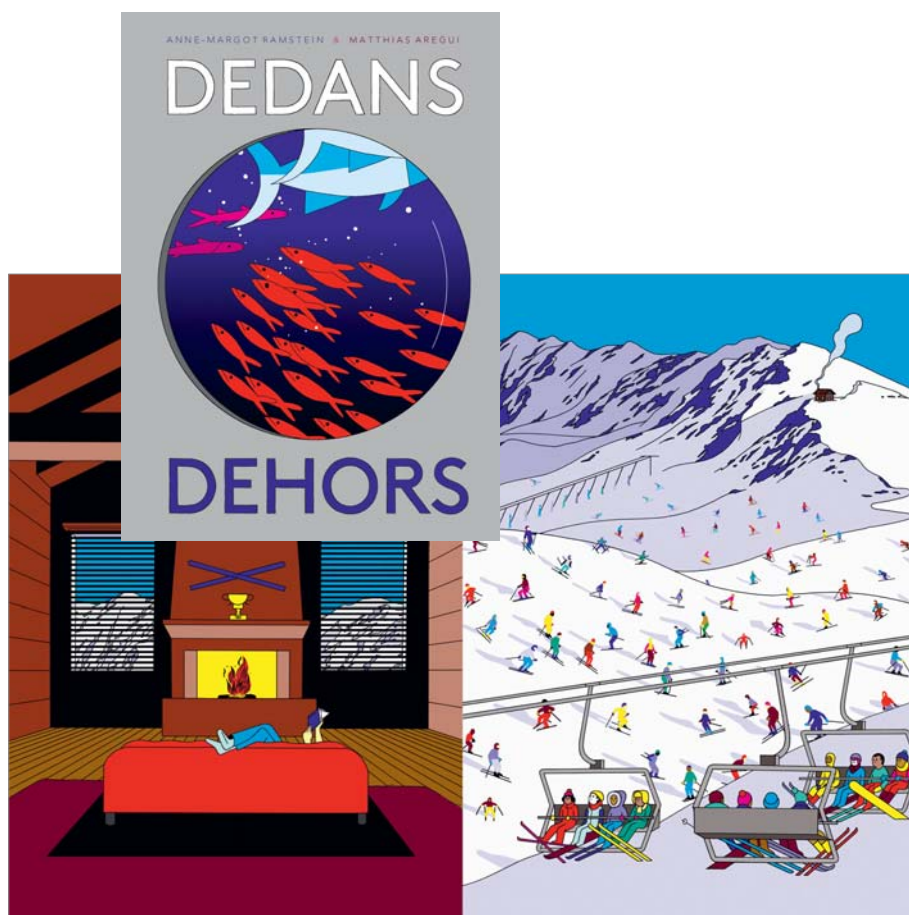

Le musée imaginaire de Jane Austen

Nathalie Novi, Fabrice Colin,
Albin Michel Jeunesse,
2017

In this imaginary museum dedicated to Jane Austen, each room represents one of the author's novels. The different pictorial techniques illustrate iconic moments from her six novels, including romantic landscapes, genre scenes of British society in the 18th and 19th centuries as well as full-length portraits. The evocative texts offer a lively summary of the novels, conjuring up the most memorable scenes, ambiances, and details of the protagonists' personalities for a full immersion into Jane Austen's timeless stories.

Inside Outside

Dedans dehors

Anne-Margot Ramstein,
Matthias Aregui,
Albin Michel Jeunesse,
2017

In this thought-provoking book, the two facing pages of each double spread show the same place from two different perspectives: inside and outside. For example, the inside of a truck looking out onto a deserted road, and the traffic jam behind the truck as seen from the outside; or the quirky interior of a cluttered home, and its exterior location, a line of identical row houses in an austere suburb. The contrasts produced by the incredible differences create surprising humorous effects and make the reader consider things in relativity.

Balivernes is an independent publisher specialized in children's books. We focus on playful and funny stories with colorful illustrations. Our goal is never to copy what has already been done, but to create something new. To assure this, we often find new talent. We love originality in the writing, the layout and the techniques used by illustrators. We want children to become story explorers, because if they enjoy reading when they are young they'll love reading books all their lives.

Farfadaises, 2016

All the animals are making fun of the little lion whose tousled mane changes color wherever he goes. By the river, the hippopotamuses laugh at him when he turns the same color as the water, and in the jungle, the parrots make fun of his multicolored mane. When he tries to chase the zebras, his mane turns black and white and none of them are afraid of him. He is sad that he is different from all the other animals. Then one day, when a chameleon asks him to play with him, they become fast friends and he gets a new nickname: Chamelion!

Calembredaines, 2018

The Wordmill was built where it could catch all the whispers and conversations from the village. The syllables danced in its colored blades as it created new words and fresh sentences. One day, the mayor decided that the mill was old fashioned and needed to be replaced by a modern word distributor. The villagers all wanted to try this new machine, and soon, it wasn't fun anymore because it kept throwing out the same words and ready-made sentences over and over again. But then, the kids decided to take action...

Casterman

Established in 1780, Casterman started publishing comics as early as 1930. Since the release of the first Tintin comic, which is still the pride of its prestigious catalogue, Casterman has remained faithful to its initial approach: to make quality books for all readers. Casterman publishes comics by major authors such as Hugo Pratt, Tardi, Bilal or Peeters and Schuiten. In addition to comic books, Casterman also publishes a wide range of children's books, from board books and animated books for the very young to picture books, activity books, non-fiction as well as literary fiction for older readers, by famous authors and illustrators such as Émile Jadoul, Anne Herbauts, François Place or David Sala. Casterman's most famous characters include: Martine, the little girl who has delighted children around the world for the last 60 years, Émilie who celebrated her 40th birthday in 2015, and, of course, timeless characters such as Ernest and Celestine by Gabrielle Vincent.

A Story As Big As Your Hand

Une histoire grande comme la main

Anne Herbauts,
Casterman, 2017

“A story as big as your hand – that means five tales in all!” the child said, opening up his hand. “Maybe. Maybe;” said the tiger, “it all depends on how you count.” The child was lucky his name started with a Y, like a branch. A branch in his name. One day the Branch-Child and his friend the tiger set out on a journey through the Forest of Dreams – it was vast, and babbling like the river. Then they went home to Grandmother Storyteller, who has her own stories that take the pair on another journey altogether. A picture book that blends word and image to remind us that our imaginations can take us on any journey we want; this is Anne Herbauts at her very best.

The Big Bad Fox

Le grand méchant renard

Benjamin Renner,
 Éditions Delcourt,
 Collection Shampooing, 2015

A poetic and funny tale for all ages written by the director of Ernest & Célestine. A puny little fox is constantly mocked by his prey because he is too small to catch and eat them. Humiliated, he is determined to find a way to become mean and intimidating. He gets the idea to steal some eggs and raise the chicks. Since chicks are small and harmless they'll surely be afraid of him and then he'll be able to eat them once they get a bit bigger! He launches his plan, however, at the moment of truth, the reaction of his little captives is not exactly what he was expecting...

Gronouyot

Stéphane Servant,
Simone Rea,
Didier Jeunesse, 2017

Gronouyot the rabbit has no ears, no tail, no muzzle and he can only say “Gronouyot”! Even though his parents love him just as he is, at school everyone makes fun of him. So much so, that Gronouyot no longer wants to be Gronouyot. But maybe the moon, with her funny looking face, could tell him the secret of how to accept yourself for who you are. Thanks to his sensitive and militant style, Stéphane Servant uses Gronouyot to address the subject of difference but leaves the conclusions free to interpretation and encourages the readers to use their imaginations. Award-winning Italian illustrator Simone Rea, adds an expressive and in-depth element to this work through elegant and soft drawings.

Gecko's Problem

La complainte de Gecko

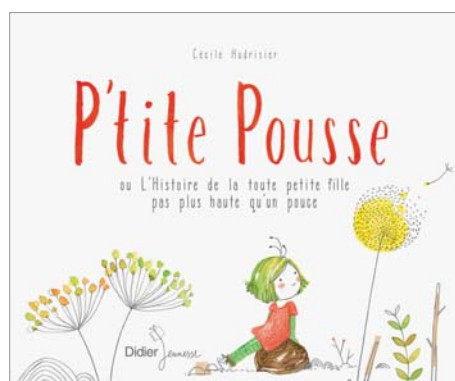

Marie Brignone, Élodie Nouhen, Didier Jeunesse, 2017

Gecko the lizard with the funny skin lives in a giant banyan tree on the island of Bali. He is having trouble sleeping because of Firefly's incessant blinking. But Firefly is blinking because Woodpecker is wildly pecking. Woodpecker is pecking because Dung Beetle is rolling and rolling and rolling manure balls. What is making Dung Beetle do that? Marie Brignone revisits a beautiful traditional Balinese tale which is written as a reminder that we are all interdependent and should all come together to better understand the world around us. A rhythmic round-robin tale that is easy to read aloud.

Thumbelina or the Story of the Little Girl That's Only a Thumb High

P'tite Pousse ou l'histoire de la toute petite fille pas plus haute qu'un pouce

Cécile Hudrisier, Didier Jeunesse, 2017

In the quiet of her own home, an old lady planted a seed in a pot. This seed grew into a little girl, no more than an inch high. Keeping her curtains drawn, the old lady protected her secret. But Thumbelina wants to see the world and runs away, taking her nut shell with her under her arm. Cécile Hudrisier story is loosely based on Hans Christian Andersen's original tale, Thumbelina. Thumbelina is strong, determined and not easily impressed. Mr. Toad's serenade and Fish and Squirrel's proposals of marriage do not seduce her. She understands that for all eternity is a very long time!

Bruno. The Day I Gifted a Plant to a Stranger

Bruno. Le jour où j'ai offert une plante à un inconnu

Nicolas Hubesh,
Catharina Valckx,
l'école des loisirs, 2017

Not only do French readers love Bruno, but foreign readers are crazy about him, too! The magical realistic atmosphere and background create a wonderfully French charm. Bruno the cat has a way of seeing the beautiful, the funny, and the touching in the smallest details of every day. This morning, for example, upon seeing a potted plant thrown onto the sidewalk, instead of passing by, Bruno picked it up and then decided to offer it to a stranger on the bus. And like magic, thus began an unexpected adventure.

In 1980, Chiara's father is appointed Italian ambassador to war torn Iran. He will go first on his own to Tehran and the rest of the family will follow in the summer. One warm evening Chiara packs her suitcase. She makes sure to include toys, as where they are headed she is not sure to find any. Where they are headed, there is an Inside and an Outside. Inside: a wild and enchanted garden. Outside: a monster city, soldiers, bombs – separated by a wall. One day, a boy climbs over the wall and into the garden... They soon become fast friends...

Ruby, Head High

Ruby tête haute

Irène Cohen Janca,

Marc Daniau,

Les Éditions des Éléphants,

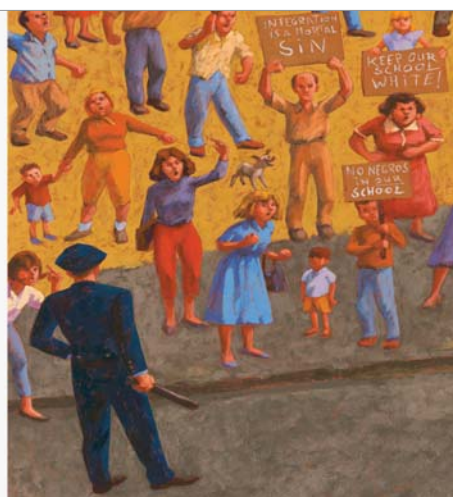

2017

Ruby cannot go to the school close to home, it is reserved for Whites – she has to go to another school, far away. But segregation is coming to an end. When she is 6 years old, Ruby is admitted to a school which used to be reserved for Whites. The local population is highly hostile about this change. When she arrives in her new classroom, she is the only student... Ruby Bridges has become an icon, helped by her being the subject of Norman Rockwell's famous painting, The Problem We All Live With, where she is depicted on her way to school escorted by four federal agents.

My Little Wheels Mes petites roues

Sebastien Pelon,
Flammarion – Père Castor,
2017

Taking the training wheels off a bicycle is a key step towards a child's independence... A little boy heads off on a bike ride and is soon joined by a big pink-hatted bundle of fur that only he can see. This is his chance to get rid of his training wheels – and the kind-hearted monster gobbles them up. There's no going back now! The boy will have to ride, fall off, get his courage back, get back on the bike and just keep at it if he wants to get it right... And understand a little more about growing up.

(Les Grandes Personnes)

Les Grandes Personnes is a French children's books publisher based in Paris. The first books were published in Fall 2010. Ours books, created by artists, illustrators and photographers, are like works of art with unique signature graphic universes made especially for children. We publish board books, novelty books, pop-up books and some picture books. Most of our titles are created in house, but we also buy some foreign rights, from all over the world, from Japan to Norway... Special care is taken in the production design so that each work amazes young readers and will instill in them the joy of books. Many of our titles have been translated into several languages.

Hatier was established in 1880 by Alexandre Hatier. The first “Bescherelle” series was launched in 1900. These schoolbooks put Hatier amongst France’s top three traditional book publishers. In the 1970s, Hatier became France’s number one publisher of extracurricular materials, and has been so ever since. The series “Bescherelle” and “Profil” are still key references in their respective fields. In 1996, Les éditions Hatier, a subsidiary of the Groupe Alexandre Hatier, was bought by Groupe Hachette Livre. Today, Hatier is one of the top three educational content publishers in France.

The 10 Little Sheep Les 10 petits moutons

Joël Guenoun,
Hatier Jeunesse, 2017

Ten endearing little sheep with very different personalities lived quietly on 10 small meadows separated by river branches. One day, the water level started to rise and the little sheep were forced to come together... In this unique “Search-and-Find” the river changes shape on every page and takes the form of a number so as to help children learn their figures 1 to 10. This work was created by a graphic designer, who uses an original font as well as a new modern and playful approach on each page.

The Blue Elf

Le lutin bleu

Janik Coat, Bernard Duisit,
 Hélium, 2017

Bernie the Bear got lost in the magic forest: he can't find his way back to his cave! Suddenly a blue elf appears, as if by magic... "It's easy to find your way! Take the first path on the left, cross the river after the clearing and then walk straight on. Most importantly: don't look back and everything will be fine, you'll be home before nightfall!" Poor Bernie, he's totally disoriented: everything seemed to change, magic is everywhere! Elves and imps follow his every step, as if to try and confuse him further. Finally Bernie finds his way... to his bed. Was it all just a dream?

La partie de cache-cache

The Never Ending Game of Hide and Seek

La partie de cache-cache

Camille Floue, Vincent Pianina, Hélium, 2017

A cross between the works of Claude Ponti and Michael Rosen & Helen Oxenbury's We're Going on a Bear Hunt. This game of hide-and-seek has been going on for ages, so by now the mischeavous little children are used to hiding in new places like the bears' den – but shhh... don't wake the hibernators, or the duck pond... They are afraid to come out because the wolf is still there trying to get into the pictures. Readers will eagerly turn the pages, to look for where the little ones hid this time and spot the gags hidden in the pictures. But is the poor wolf really after them? This fast-paced zany narrative by Floue and Pianina will instantly delight early readers while turning reading into a game.

Pompon Bear Isn't Afraid Of Anything

Pompon ours dans les bois

Benjamin Chaud, Hélium, 2018

The forest is so peaceful! The sun is shining, the flowers are growing, the butterflies are flitting, and the Bear family is enjoying a delightful moment in the clearing. Except for Pompon, he's really bored! Suddenly he decides he's had enough of all this, he's going to be a little boy! He heads off.

"Don't go too far," his mother says. But Pompon doesn't listen, he's off on an adventure! After a long walk, he comes across an empty house... Bears aren't allowed to go into houses, but now that Pompon is a boy it's fine. He goes in, takes a bath and dresses up in boy's clothes. But is the house really empty? "Why don't you go outside and play, there are so many things to see and do out there!" Run as fast as you can, look at flowers, find shapes in the clouds or just breath. You could pretend to be a great adventurer, jumping from rock to rock, or observe the fragile beauty of nature. This full sized picture book is comprised of painted illustrations inspired by 19th century engravings which take the reader through a sequence of landscapes in cross-section, that show young readers what goes on out there in the water and above and below the ground. It explains the ecological aspects of nature and tells of some 250 wild animal species including some at high risk of global extinction. There is also an index of all the animals and their habitats.

PROFESSION : MOUTON

Mouton, en principe, ce n'est pas un métier. Pas comme chien. On peut être chien de chasse, chien d'avalanche, chien d'aveugle, de berger, de cirque, de traîneau, chien des douanes ou chien policier... Une multitude de carrières s'offre à vous quand vous êtes un chien.

Mais mouton ?...

Certes, nous sommes utiles en tant qu'espèce : couvertures, chaussettes, cache-nez, vestes de tweed et pulls douille, tout ça vient de nous. Tout ça et bien d'autres choses. Mais comme individus... Ce n'est pas pour rien qu'on appelle « moutons »

Robêêrt

Jean-Luc Fromental,
Thomas Baas,
Hélium, 2017

The extraordinary mémoires of a not so ordinary sheep: a coming-of-age story with a very English humour. Robêêrt is an ordinary French farm lamb. Thanks to his thirst for knowledge and his acute observation skills, the smart, eager lamb soon becomes the sheep dog's star pupil. When he is bullied by the rest of the flock, Robêêrt finds shelter in the main house, but unfortunately, becomes a living cuddly toy for the spoiled little girls. One day he is taken to the Strawberries Stables home of a presumptuous champion racehorse named Dash, and becomes his pet. Because of his unique nature he is given the mission to calm the champion and prepare him for Ascot where he is going to run against his greatest rival, Lady Castamere. But his adventures don't end there...

des meilleurs élèves de Léonard, dénommé Salai, avait fait une copie de Monna Lisa, que l'on appelait aussi "La Joconde". C'était en 1525, six ans après la mort de Léonard, et c'est la première fois qu'apparaît ce titre de La Joconde. Cent ans plus tard, en 1625, un certain Cassiano dal Pozzo, grand amateur d'art italien, découvre le tableau de Léonard qu'il trouve magnifique, mais comme il ne connaît pas la femme représentée, il se contente de l'appeler "une certaine Joconde", sans comprendre qu'il s'agit de Lisa del Giocondo.

The story of Rouergue jeunesse began in 1993 with a little square picture book, Jojo la mache, written and illustrated by Olivier Douzou. This first publication paved the way for many talented authors and illustrators. In 1998, the catalogue expanded to cover YA novels. The “doado” series is well liked for its continually high standard content and great style. Over the years, several series for the youngest readers with very visual names were created: “zig zag”, “tic tac”, “boomerang” and “dacodac”. From the very beginning, the aim of this publishing venture has been to nurture curiosity, enthusiasm and creativity.

Sirius

Stéphane Servant,
 Rouergue,
 Collection épik, 2017

In a post-apocalyptic world, Avril, a teenager, and Kid, a little boy, are doing their best to survive in a hut perched on top of a tree. Their daily routine consists of finding enough food to eat and educating Kid. However, Avril’s past, steeped in mystery and violence, catches up with them. Darius has tracked her down with what remains of the Black Stars. A sect, consisting solely of teenagers with one sole aim: to hasten the end of everything and punish adults for the state of the world. Avril has no alternative, if she wants to live, she must flee with Kid. Hunted down, they meet Sirius, a black piglet with a white star on its forehead, perhaps the last surviving animal. Through his relationship with the Sirius, Kid begins to metamorphosize...

How to (Really) Maximize Your Vacation

Comment maximiser (enfin) ses vacances

Anne Percin,
Rouergue, 2017

Maxime Mainard, hero of the cult series that began with How to (Really) Ruin your Vacation is back in this 4th volume. He passed the Baccalaureate but failed to get accepted to the prestigious “Sciences Po”, the Institute for Political Studies. In order to avoid loser holidays – a summer job and “Paris-Plage” – he manages to get a gig for his rock band to play at the famous Mussel Festival at Arcachon Bay on the Atlantic Coast! He gathers his whole crew, including his girlfriend and little sister and they head off for a two-week stay at the beach. Camping, concerts, love, fighting and running away, all the ingredients are there to make the holidays crazy... and amazing. 4 titles in the series.

Saussure's Ascent

L'ascension de Saussure

Pierre Senzius,
Rouergue, 2017

Each double page reveals a different natural landscape, immense and magnificent, traversed by an expedition team in single file. They follow the valleys, the forests, the peaks, the great plateaus wreathed in mist – and finally the summit. All the figures in this roped party, laden with their backpacks, seem tiny on the pages as they trek to their final goal, the summit to marvel at the starry sky. It is only then that we discover that the narrator, who complains of his aching legs, is actually a dog...

White Bird

L'oiseau blanc

Alex Cousseau,
Charles Dutertre,
Rouergue, 2017

White Bird is a Native American and the Aviator, a European. White Bird dreams of flying through the air, scanning the lands beyond the horizon. As for the Aviator, now that the war is over, is working for a flying circus. He is part of an acrobatic troupe that has traveled to the United States to perform in an air show. This is where White Bird and the pilot meet. The former would love to fly on board his new friend's "iron bird" while the latter dreams of being the first to cross the Atlantic in this brand-new plane. But will their dreams come true?

The Butterfly Effect

Minute papillon !

Gaëtan Dorémus,
Rouergue, 2017

A caterpillar strolls around a garden and takes itself for an ogre devouring green beans, eggplants, apples, zucchini, carrots in succession. For every piece of fruit or vegetable it gobbles up, it pretends to be devouring animals. An eggplant can easily turn into a whale, a tuber a rabbit, and so on. But our caterpillar takes on more and more colors with every bite it takes: the red of the tomato, the purple of the eggplant... It is destined to become a big beautiful butterfly covered in all the colors of the garden.

Fox (Series) Renard (collection)

FibreTigre, Floriane Ricard,
Rue de l'échiquier, 2017-2018

The tales of Fox are set in a poetic and playful universe and address essential themes of today's society such as overconsumption, waste, pollution... In Fox Saves His Bike, a truck ran over Fox's bike. At the bike repair shop, he's told that he should buy a new bike because it will be too expensive to fix the old one. In Fox and the Free Money, Fox's friend Neighbor becomes incredibly rich when due to some computer glitch his bank account is an endless source of money. He starts to buy everything and anything, everyone becomes rich, to the point where nobody is working anymore, and there is a threat of a famine... Fox Jumps In gets the reader to think about water pollution. 3 titles in the series, rights sold into Chinese.

Make Your (Little) Planet Great Again! (Series)
Je me bouge pour ma planète (collection)
 Rue de l'échiquier, 2018

Playful little textbooks to help children be part of making our planet great again! Children are, on the whole, concerned about ecology and the future of our planet. They are also much more willing to change their behavior, so it becomes more ecological than their elders. This series helps show children how they can become eco-responsible and play a part in saving our planet. Each title presents a new subject, an ecological issue and its status quo through examples, data and statistics. Then it goes on to give an overview of possible actions that 8 to 12-year olds can take to help resolve the issue. And finally, it draws conclusions that invite the reader to think and act on the issue. These guides are well illustrated and include games and a short comic as a bonus.

Mister Wolf Is Hungry
Monsieur Loup a les crocs
 Sandrine-Marie Simon,
 Sébastien Chebret,
 Rue de l'échiquier, 2017

Mister Wolf is very hungry, he would like to eat at least three little pigs... Does this story ring a bell? Well, make no mistake, in this version, against all protocol, the little pigs will open their door to the hungry wolf. They in fact welcome him, make him comfortable and put a large warm towel around the neck, then treat him to a feast of freshly cooked vegetables. The wolf is incredulous, he can't help but notice that not only is he full, but he also loved what he ate...

The Fossil

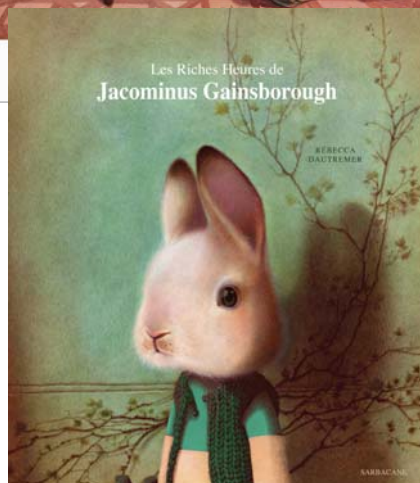

Le fossile

Max Ducos,
Sarbacane,
Collection Pop-Up Books, 2018

Clément was taking a walk with his father when he noticed a rock that looked really different from the others. Could this be a fossil? His father called a Paleontologist friend, who immediately understood that Clément had found something very important. The dig begins. As the reader turns the contour shaped pages, following the story, a complete dinosaur skeleton with a small dinosaur in its mouth is revealed! Clément participates in the dig, and when the skeleton is presented to a museum, he is the guest of honor. Not only that, the type of dinosaur is given the name... Clémentosaurus! A short narrative with simple text that follows the path of this incredible discovery.

Paris With You
Songe à la douceur
 Clémentine Beauvais,
 Sarbacane,
 Collection Exprim', 2016

When Tatiana and Eugene meet, she is 14, and he is 17. It's summer, and there is not a lot to do other than spend time talking to each other. He is confident, charming and trouble. She is shy, an idealist and a romantic. She, inevitably, falls in love with him, and it seems, he with her... as well. She writes him a love letter but he rejects her. Ten years later, by chance, they meet again. Tatiana is now a mature, confident and articulate woman. Eugene realizes he really wants to be with her. But is she interested in him? Songe à la douceur is two tales of one love that is real but out-of-sync – one of adolescents and one of young adults – that show what a difference ten years, those ten years can make.

Since its founding in 1998, éditions Thierry Magnier has been mixing genres and breaking the rules, exploring illustration and visual art, in short, reinventing everyday children's books. The first big success came in 2004 with Tout un monde, an image-book by Katy Couprie and Antonin Louchard published in 8 languages. Mostly focused on young children books to start with, the catalogue quickly opened up to fiction for readers from 7 to adults. The company was selected as Best European Publisher of the year in 2011 and has won several Bologna Ragazzi Awards over the years. Editions Thierry Magnier merged with Actes Sud in 2005.

Wonderful Nature A Fabulous Seek-and-Find Book Merveilleuse nature

Nathalie Béreau, Michaël Cailloux,
Éditions Thierry Magnier, 2017

Another Seek-and-Find? Yes... and no because this one is in a league with the great art books thanks to its high production quality and the dust jacket that folds out into a poster. Twelve double spreads for the twelve months of the year, where the young reader must search for lots of details hidden in each illustration. Each month has its own universe, February, it's the animal carnival; May, a country picnic; August, a swim in the sea... with lots of other bathers! October, a Halloween parade among the pumpkins as vampire bats fly in the sky above, etc. Michaël Cailloux, a textile designer, created pictures buzzing with details beautiful enough to be lovely wallpaper.

The Carriers, Vol. 1. Matt

Les porteurs, Vol. 1. Matt

C. Kueva,
Éditions Thierry Magnier, 2017

A bold trilogy for teens and young adults. Male or female? At 16, you must choose. Gaëlle has chosen to be a woman, Flo is still undecided. As for Matt, he knows that in three months' time, he will become a man. In their society, all children are born hermaphrodites. When they turn 16, they must choose their sex during the Séza, the obligatory rite of passage. All except for those afflicted with a deficiency that condemns them to another destiny. They are referred to as the Carriers, and Matt finds out he is one of them. This chronic novel is an incredible story of manipulation, conspiracy and, in the end, of love. The second volume was published in November 2017 and the third and last one is expected in May 2018.
