For nearly 150 years, the BIEF has been promoting the works of French publishers on an international stage. Its mission: to foster and develop exchange between French and foreign publishing industry professionals.

This catalogue presents more than 40 publishing houses, each through a selection of 5 works affording an overview of their recent releases and editorial line. It is intended for foreign publishers interested in reaching out to their French counterparts, for booksellers and librarians, and for lovers of children’s books.

A digital version is available on our website: www.bief.org

These titles, and so much more, may be found at www.booksfromfrance.fr

It is our sincere hope that this concise and handy resource will encourage you to contact the publishers in question via their Foreign Rights Managers, helpfully listed in these pages.

* Please note that titles in English favor literal translations and have been provided primarily for informational purposes.

The Actes Sud Junior catalogue is the fruit of a concerted effort to maintain a diverse selection of titles so as to assure a multi-faceted collection that includes picture books, activity books, novels, and nonfiction. For over 20 years, we have been committed to publishing high-quality content, with strong voices, to the highest production standards. Striving for excellence in children's books, we like to discover, share, and break down the borders between genres, tirelessly reinventing the publishing business. We aim to create books that are not only fun to read, but also encourage young readers to ask questions and understand our changing world.

The monster in the cupboard doesn’t like the way he looks! Luckily his little human shows him that everyone is perfect in their own way, even monsters.

The monster in the cupboard doesn’t like his face, hands, bottom, or anything else for that matter. When he looks at himself in the mirror, he thinks he is too fat, or too small. So, for each thing he doesn’t like about himself, his little human names ten that he loves. Because in the little boy’s eyes, he’s the best-looking, cutest monster ever.
Three Whowhat comics in one volume: three zany adventures with Pétole, Boulard, and the whole gang for three times more reading and fun!

A book in which each gag is followed by another at a frenetic pace and in which we can count on the pontificating Mixo to draw a conclusion for each story...

When the librarian disappears, the Library Gang decides to investigate. Prepare for a descent into hell, with monsters and demons at every turn!

When Flore has yet another anxiety attack during math class, the librarian happily welcomes her into the school library. Along with Grégory, a very popular student who is repeating a year, she meets Samuel, a self-proclaimed future great rapper, and Nadia, a slightly sarcastic gothic chick. The four middle schoolers form the “Library Gang,” primarily to read mangas. But when the librarian suddenly goes missing, the Library Gang decides to find her. A very dangerous mission!

LA RÉVOLUTION DU ZÉRO

Un rien qui change tout!

Le zéro est le dernier chiffre à avoir été créé. On le doit à l’un des plus grands mathématiciens de l’histoire : Brahmagupta (598-668), un mathématicien indien. Il est le premier à l’avoir défini comme la soustraction d’un nombre par lui-même, par exemple 7 – 7 = 0.

Pour lui, il fallait créer un nombre spécial pour signifier ce rien, c’est-à-dire une quantité nulle. Cela peut te paraître évident, mais pour les mathématiciens, c’est une des grandes découvertes des mathématiques modernes.

Les Indiens ont noté le zéro par un cercle et l’ont nommé “sunya”, ce qui signifie dans leur langue “vide”. En langue arabe, le mot “vide” se traduit “sifr”, qui a donné le mot “chiffre” en français. C’est donc le dernier arrivé dans la famille des chiffres qui a donné son nom à la famille entière !

Les Mésopotamiens et les Mayas avaient déjà inventé un symbole pour signifier la place vide à l’intérieur d’un nombre écrit, mais ce sont les Indiens qui ont réinventé le zéro de position avant d’en faire un nombre qu’on peut additionner et multiplier comme n’importe quel autre.

Un rien qui change tout !

Numbers are everywhere. But where do they come from?
And how were they invented?

Numbers are such a big part of our lives, from when we wake up to when we go to bed, that we hardly even notice them. But how did humans start counting, and why? This book examines the history of an invention without which other inventions would never have existed. From the birth of numbers in Mesopotamia to the invention of zero, and the first calculating instruments and computers, this book unfolds the saga of numbers to reconcile even the most reluctant kids with mathematics!
All Albin Michel Jeunesse’s publications, whether pop-up books, novelty books, picture books, novels or non-fiction titles, are brought to life with imagination and enthusiasm. The Imbroglio

Un brouillamini
Karen HOTTOIS, Vincent PIANINA

A daring and unique layout that highlights the beauty of a miniature world.

This “imbroglio” displays the intertwined stories of the earthworm, the moth, the grasshopper, and the snail in an original layout made up of 4 strips of images for 4 intersecting stories. The earthworm does not want to spend the winter alone and desperately wants to be in love, so he writes to the moth with a hopeful heart. But the moth prefers to ask the grasshopper to become her friend. And the grasshopper somehow misunderstands everything... What a mess!

When Nora’s meticulously tidy life is swamped by a stormy “dog-like” emotion, it sparks an unexpected journey of self-discovery...

In a house where order prevails, Nora eagerly counts down the days until her birthday. When Nora begs for a dog as a gift, her mother refuses adamantly. Dogs make a mess and destroy things. Faced with this refusal, the little girl turns into a storm, swirling with emotions. Little does she know that somewhere, her anger has been heard. Soon, a small furry companion named Tornado appears on their doorstep... and it's safe to say that he lives up to his name!

Discover the ocean’s depths and its inhabitants while having fun with this top-notch documentary!

The ocean is home to an exceptional and still largely unknown biodiversity that directly contributes to life on land. This documentary uses stunning illustrations to show the wonders and dynamic equilibrium of these ecosystems, exploring themes such as inter-species cooperation, food chains, and the vital adaptation to climate change. Engaging games that help children identify different species are included to emphasize the importance of understanding this delicate environment to better preserve it.

A YA graphic novel with a funny, quirky voice written for anyone who has struggled (or will struggle!) to discover their true identity.

Elise grew up in a lively family: she is surrounded by four outgoing sisters, a mother who never stops talking, and a father driven by his passion for the cello. Elise, however, is introverted and modest. She grows up with the feeling that she’s the black sheep of the family. This graphic novel follows Elise through her final year in high school, a pivotal year, as she reflects deeply on her future. The heroine slaloms through this period with an unquenchable desire to discover who she really is.

The Richest Cow in the World
La vache la plus riche du monde
BARROUX

In a humorous children’s tale based on the Mexican Fisherman parable, internationally-recognized Barroux reminds us that happiness lies in simplicity.

A cow is napping at the foot of an apple tree. A pig comes up to her and says, “Instead of taking a nap, you could collect all these apples and make pies, lots of pies, applesauce, and even jam. Then you could sell them until you become... the richest cow in the world.” As readers turn the pages, the pig embarks us on an imaginary story: the cow turning rich, managing her empire from the top of a New York skyscraper, dining with Hollywood stars... But is this really what the cow wants?

A Year of Festivities Around the World
Une année de fête
Camille ZABKA, Reza DAVLAND

How do people celebrate major events in different cultures?
A round-the-world trip of 16 festivities in a gorgeous album.

Each year, traditional festivities enchant and set the tempo for millions of families around the world. They are a perfect occasion to gather, dance, sing, and celebrate important events. This album illustrates 16 major celebrations from countries and cultures all around the world! The colorful double spreads are an invitation to dive in and look for beautiful details. A calendar of the most important festivities worldwide can be found at the end of the book, as well as a map!
Come on, Let’s Go!
Allez, on y va!
Amélie GRAUX

An album that will make children laugh at their parents... and their parents laugh at them!

Children do not acquire the notion of time until very late in their cerebral development. They live in the present moment. Adults, on the other hand, are often caught up in their urgencies, victims of “acceleritis,” a contemporary evil that forces us to do more things more quickly. With humor and realism, this book illustrates the temporal duality between parents and children, along with the tension it imposes on daily life.

The Full Picture
On a deux yeux pour voir
Baptiste BEAULIEU, Qin LENG

A poetic and modern tale about recognizing nuances in life, from the bestselling duo Baptiste Beaulieu & Qin Leng.

A child wakes up with two different eyes: one pupil is the shape of a crescent moon to see what is positive and joyful, the other one the shape of a star to see what is sad. As the child soon realizes, it is a blessing, because we all need both to see the full picture. For example, at a family gathering, the child realizes it’s sad because their grandma is aging, but it’s also happy, because a new baby is expected soon. And so, the child discovers that two emotions can exist simultaneously.
Fox and Mrs. Weasel set out to catch the biggest duck in the forest, but they’re in for a series of hilarious surprises!

Winter is almost over and there’s nothing to eat. While Fox is busy feeling sorry for himself, a “Quack Quack!” rings out from the other side of the forest. “Judging by the size of these footprints, that duck must weigh 20 pounds! But how can I catch it without getting pecked?” Never short on ideas, Fox finds Mrs. Weasel and tells her about his plan...

Marie-Rose-Marie’s Factory
La fabrique de Marie-Rose-Marie
Cédric JANVIER, Marlène VERGLAS

In the grandmother’s factory, each book is born from a breath of imagination and magic, a precious secret that she will soon share with her grandson.

Today, my grandmother shared her greatest secret with me: her fabulous book factory! Together, we explored a land of imagination, teeming with fireflies, pirates, and dragons. When she sits in her armchair, she turns on the magic wheels and our ideas are transformed into living characters and breathtaking landscapes, weaving an extraordinary story. And just like that, a new book is born! But my grandmother also taught me how books can be born without magic!

The objects in tales are no longer leaving Imelda’s shop, because cherished tales from yesteryear are not being read. Can she bring them back to life?

Imelda watched over enchanted objects. But one morning, something was bothering her. Then she realized that everything was in order. The objects from tales of magical worlds, enchanted forests, castles, and legendary love stories were all there, magnificent and mysterious. Their presence signified a sad truth: the words “Once upon a time,” the key to unlocking these adventures, were no longer being spoken. If the objects were all there, it was because their stories were no longer being told...

My Square Board Books: What Are Your Parents Like?
Mes imagiers tout carrés : Tes parents, ils sont comment ?
Bénédicte RIVIÈRE, Marguerite COURTIEU

A spectacular informational book exploring the giant animals of the prehistoric era.
Unlike dinosaurs, the incredible creatures in this book lived at the same time as humans during the Pleistocene... and most went extinct because of them. This book takes you on a journey to discover unjustly overlooked animals and lists all kinds of facts about them: period, continent, size, eating habits, lifestyle, cause of extinction, and more. Each animal profile is accompanied by a cameo image featuring humans, providing a glimpse into the spectacular size of these "giants"...

Emile and Félix
Stéphanie DEMASSE-POTTIER, Laura KIENTZLER

A big-hearted book with imaginative and fanciful illustrations, blending brushstrokes and collage, that delicately explores the subject of adoption.

Alone on his mountain, Emile lives as a hermit. He simply enjoys life, until the day he discovers a sleeping rabbit in his backyard. Listening solely to his heart, Emile invites him to stay for a while. As the days go by, a close relationship develops between the little rabbit, who had neither parents nor a name, and his host... Has this lost child found a home?

In Your Arms
Dans tes bras
Marion TRAORÉ

A nighttime book with daytime colors to share tender moments.

Night is falling. Alone in her room, a little girl tries to fall asleep. She thinks of all the happy moments she has experienced. Memories of tenderness shared over the days, helping her to gently drift off to sleep in the arms of the night.
The Disappearance
La Disparition
Claire HANNICQ

A playful "search-and-find" approach to cleverly explore the disappearance of ecosystems.

Lemur swings from branch to branch in the jungle. Suddenly, the vine he’s holding fades and he falls to the ground. Who’s that? It’s his friend Tiger. The jungle is gone! Together, the two friends set off in search of it. Is that a trunk? No, it’s the elephants. Is that a leaf? No, it’s the monkeys. Will the animals manage to find their habitat?

At Nonna’s House
Chez Nonna
Esther BACOT

In the unusual setting of an engraving studio, this book humorously explores the complexity of familial ties.

Nonna looks after her grandson in her engraving studio where she lives. The old lady is not always easy to get along with. One day, she pays so little attention to her young guest that she accidentally flattens him in her press! He emerges as thin as a sheet of paper. Together, they try everything to make him three-dimensional again and restore the bond between them. Will the little boy find his place in Nonna’s workshop and in her heart?
Meet Dust, the small, very small witch who lives in the forest of tiny things! With mischief and kindness, Dust solves problems both big and small.

A cracked shell, a damaged wing, tear-inducing heartache? Quick, the inhabitants of the forest run to Dust! When – what a catastrophe! – three mushrooms lose their caps, Dust flies to help them on her dandelion broom. A pinch of roots, a glass of flea saliva, a drop of night-dream... the potion is ready. Each mushroom has a pretty and crazy cap once again! Mission accomplished for Dust!

What if turning the pages of a book had consequences on the characters inside the book itself? An interactive gamebook full of humor and loud clangs!

In the Kingdom of Tralala, you’ll find all of the fairy-tale archetypes: a big castle, a charming prince, a princess, a riding hood. But when a sudden earthquake shakes everything up, the Big Bad Wolf decides to investigate. When he discovers that they’re all in a book and that the readers are creating all the chaos by turning the pages, there’s only one solution: to stop us from reading! Maybe by turning into a boring textbook? Or by creating tons of spelling mistakes to scare off the parents?

Emotion after emotion, the whole world unfolds through the eyes of a toddler. A book with a clever, gentle, and sweet sense of humor, just like a hug!

When you're little, the world is a kaleidoscope of feelings: sometimes funny, sometimes unfair, sometimes sweet, sad, tiring, or simply beautiful... There are so many feelings in a single day! An approach and style perfectly adapted to children, enabling each picture to create an instinctive and irresistible emotion for readers (children and parents alike!)

Armelle and Mirko #1: The Spark
Armelle et Mirko #1 : L'étincelle
Ongoing series, 3rd title to be published in 2024
Anne MONTEL, Loïc CLÉMENT, Julien ARNAL

The authors bring together their talent and sensibility to create a new world for the youngest of readers: Armelle and Mirko.

Armelle is a turtle who has an irrational, overwhelming, and paralyzing fear of the darkness. This is a problem since, at the slightest sign of danger, she has to retreat into her shell where it's dark. That being said, turtles are not exactly built for running and the forest holds many dangers. But maybe light and kindness can be found in a friend, especially if the friend in question is a firefly?
A bright and poetic board book about the sun, sometimes gentle and sometimes harsh, marking the hours of a lovely hot summer day . . .

After the success of Snow and Storm, Anais Brunet continues her bold, sensory exploration of natural phenomena with this book about the sun over the course of a hot day. She makes us see and feel the sun at the different stages of the day, at times gentle, playful, crushing, or magical, in a colorful setting between dreams and reality. A beautiful and playful board book with fluorescent Pantone pink and shiny elements that young children will enjoy following and touching.
Nursery Rhymes and Lullabies of Ukraine

Comptines et Berceuses d’Ukraine
Ongoing series (Nursery Rhymes of the World)

Nathalie SOUSSANA, QU Lan, David DOUCERAIN

20 nursery rhymes and lullabies to immerse readers in the musical culture of Ukraine.

This new book and CD set reveals the beauty of Ukrainian folk songs. Some songs are tied to traditions (Christmas and other seasonal celebrations) while others are non-ritualistic (historical or political themes, lullabies, finger plays, etc.), but they are always moving, whether filled with joy or sensitivity. They reflect the everyday lives of the Ukrainian people, their esthetic, and their worldview. These songs were collected from Ukrainian refugees in France, Germany, and Poland.

The Little Man Who Didn’t Like Anything

Le petit homme qui n’aimait rien

Pépito MATÉO, Irène BONACINA

A bright and poetic picture book that invites us to rediscover the beauty of the world around us.

There once was a man who didn’t like anything. Everything annoyed him. So one morning, he attacked everything in sight: the sun, the clouds, the trees... so much so that they all disappeared. The man was satisfied: nothing could bother him anymore. But nothingness is frightening. The man wanted the world back! He had to name it. He named a star, then the sun, the flowers... to rediscover them in a new light, and regain a taste for life by fully appreciating the world around him.
After scorning the old fairy Gafatapoire, King Crouton and his kingdom must suffer the curse of the pickle.

A zany and hilarious story!

Everything was going swimmingly in the kingdom of the beloved King Crouton. Until the day a tiny seed falls out of the sky: a pickle seed. The whole kingdom falls in love with pickles! Then misfortune strikes. After refusing to give his pickle to the old fairy Gafatapoire, the King receives the curse of the pickle... everyone he touches turns into a pickle! A hilarious adventure ensues to find the remedy to cure his subjects. A comical and absurd story full of twists and turns.

The Curse of the Pickle
La malédiction des cornichons
Jean-Pierre KERLOC’H, Delphine DURAND

Hunting monsters when you’ve always been protected from them? What a challenge! The fascinating quest of a young monster hunter.

Sarah, 15, is the daughter of the continent’s greatest monster hunter. She wants to know all about these creatures, but her father refuses. One night, the manor house where they live is attacked! Sarah is forced to flee, taking with her the hunting case and a precious compendium: The Monster Hunter’s Guide. She meets Tom, a young thief, who offers to escort her to Red Town, where Sarah can be reunited with her father. But the road to the East is fraught with danger...

The Monsters of Overland
Les Monstres d’Outre-terre

David MOITET, Carlotta DICATALDO
A beautiful picture book full of fun details to encourage interactions with children.

In their world, the seasons peacefully go by. The year is punctuated by celebrations and cultural outings, but also work, groceries, and school. They share everything: their space and their emotions. Everyone is included, even the elderly and the homeless. They share the vegetable patch and the corner market practices fair trade. This picture book without any words is very eloquent! Does it describe the cats’ dream world, or is it a glimpse into what ours could look like?

A book that very delicately evokes the absence of a mother who has gone to work far away.

In the form of a diary, a little girl writes to her mother, who has gone on a polar expedition. She tells her about her days, tries to imagine what sea ice looks like... and above all, tells her mother how much she misses her, even if she left her some letters before leaving, which help to alleviate the pain of her absence.

My Mother of Sea Ice
Ma mère des banquises
Didier LEVY, Tiziana ROMANIN

A Christmas tale inspired by Czech folklore highlighting the values of being welcoming, generosity, and sharing.

Nobody has ever seen him, but they say he’s very old, very tall, has a beard so long that it sometimes gets tangled up in his belt, and carries a stick so tall that birds come to perch on it. He reigns over the Giant Mountains, where Milena and her grandmother live. On Christmas Eve, Milena meets this mysterious man, and invites him in...

Three Lessons from the Wise Man Osho Babanesh
Trois leçons du grand sage Osho Babanesh
Davide CALI, Lionel TARCHALA

Three short stories full of humor and wisdom to explore the meaning of life.

Once upon a time, there was a great sage, an old scholar who, they said, knew all the answers. Does money make you happy? Why do we wage war? Should we fear death? In three little fables, which are as funny as they are wise, the famous Osho Babanesh shares his thoughts with us.

Antonin FAURE

A perfect book for very little ones about a mad dash to the lunch table, which we delight in reading and re-reading to spot new details.

The worm wants to eat the apple, the chickadee wants to eat the worm, the weasel wants to eat the chickadee, the snake wants to eat the weasel... but... no such luck! One by one, the animals miss their lunch. Are they all just unlucky? Or not? By working together, maybe they’ll have a better chance of finding something to fill their bellies... A fast-paced book full of humor and joy that turns the laws of nature on their head, proving that by working together, we can overcome any challenge.
The story of the famous Russian ballerina considered to be the best ballet dancer and known for her role in the ballet Death of the Swan.

Anna Pavlova, born in 1881 in Saint Petersburg, developed her love for classical dance after attending a performance of the ballet “The Sleeping Beauty” with her mother at the age of ten. She joined the Imperial Ballet School, distinguished herself through her talent, and became a principal dancer in 1905, then a prima ballerina in 1906, thus entering legend with her interpretation of the Swan.

A magnificent wilderness odyssey in Canada’s far north in a splendid adaptation of London’s The Call of the Wild.

The Call of the Wild was written in 1903 by Jack London, a story taken directly from his years wandering the Klondike during the Gold Rush. In this story, we follow a dog’s path to the wild, Buck’s journey to free himself from the grip of man, a perfect mirror image of White Fang. This is an odyssey through nature in its raw, powerful state, and above all, the perfect setting for a splendid picture book for everyone.

A beautiful and tender tribute to fatherly love and the singularity of our parents.

“My father was the slowest man in the world.” So begins the story of this funny dad, who eats his couscous one grain at a time, takes a whole week to wash up, and never finishes his sentences. This story celebrates his singularity, the kindness that surrounds him, and the possibility for everyone to find their own rhythm. Sim Mau’s illustrations beautifully convey this character’s moving clumsiness and the gentle absurdity of this tale by Arthur Dreyfus.

A quality company since 1973, Grasset-Jeunesse has just celebrated its 50th anniversary. Its catalogue, which includes works by Pierre Gripari, Raymond Briggs, and Peter Sís, continues to grow, opening up to new authors and illustrators, while keeping its heritage alive. This small children's department of a major French literary house publishes mainly fine illustrated books, paying as much attention to text as to illustrations and graphic design, pursuing the adage from the outset: “Publish little, but publish well.”

The World Is Immense
Le monde est immense
Anne CORTEY, Marion COCKLICO

A cuddly album with poetic text and luminous colors created entirely with collage.

“The world is immense and very high, too. I pull myself up on my toes. Above me is the window. On the other side, there’s the universe...”

The world is immense, especially when you’re very small. From inside to outside, from curiosity to discovery, from absence to presence, from home to cocoon, this cuddly book with its poetic text and bright colors is a delight for both the eyes and the heart.

Sandrine KAO

A large, beautiful book encouraging us to contemplate, philosophize, dream, believe in ourselves... and find ourselves!
Sometimes we go on adventures. We explore, we discover unexplored places. Sometimes, we go through storms, and we have to stay hidden, huddled, warm, and strong. Sometimes, too, we get lost. But fortunately, we find each other again. And we savor the pleasure of being together again, and the important moments that make life beautiful...

Edmond Rostand’s famous Ode to the Nose, masterfully illustrated by Bruno Gibert.

Aggressive, friendly, descriptive, or curious... Bruno Gibert accompanies Cyrano’s masterful speech with drawings that are as subtle as they are mischievous. This hymn to self-acceptance, which castigates physical judgment and intellectual ignorance, resonates as much now as it did in Edmond Rostand’s time... Let’s rediscover it here through a magnificent visual presentation!

To save Big Truffle Forest, Acacia, a little river otter, is never short on ideas... as crazy as they may be.

Two adventures per book! Cans raining down in the forest, cut down trees, the decreasing river level, an abandoned washing machine, a dog tied to a tree... Acacia the otter tries to find solutions, but along with the help of a mole who could really use glasses, a grumpy squirrel who can’t see further than his own hazelnuts, lazy ants, and an unpopular skunk, it’s not always a walk in the park! After each story, Acacia shares valuable advice for taking care of nature!

The adventures of a fearless young hero who discovers his heritage and seeks his place in Ellondor, a world with a wide variety of imaginary lands.

Ten years ago, the cruel Alcyon defeated Great White Wolf and took over as chief of the Wolf-Fangs. Far away in Casteldaure, Silas, the true heir of the Wolf-Fangs grows up in total secrecy. Over the course of his adventures, he tames a giant howling-wolf sent by Alcyon to Casteldaure and helps to save the princess kidnapped by the Fur-Hide clan. But he’ll have to confront the true threat looming over the kingdom of Ellondor: the sorcerer Malragon the Red.

Garance, Heir to Olympus #1: Demeter’s Challenge

A young sorceress’s journey of initiation to acquire the magic of the gods of Olympus.

10-year-old Garance is starting to learn magic... Hailing from a family of sorcerers connected to the 12 gods of Olympus, she has one year to discover which of their powers will be hers! Will it be the power of Demeter, the first divinity she meets, with her time-related magic? Things aren’t looking promising: she gives her a challenge worthy of the greatest heroes of mythology: delivering her daughter Persephone from the Underworld...

A powerful fantastic thriller with an unexpected outcome that questions our relationship to nature and its consequences.

When Cléa arrives in Ombelle, a remote village in the mountains, she hopes to recharge her batteries after a disastrous year at art school. But what starts out as a quest for inspiration turns into a quest for the truth in the face of the many mysteries she encounters. Having been ordered not to go near the forest, Cléa wonders if the villagers’ fears are connected to the local legends referring to an ancestral creature wandering the woods…

Heroes with divine magic, torn in a struggle between fate and free will.

During a rite of passage, Tyr discovers he’s a Runbørn. Like his friends Hel and Bragi, he is a link in a chain forged long before his birth: bearers of a divinity’s powers, they must track down the 24 runes scattered throughout the world to bring the Nordic gods back to life. To do so, they’ll have to convince the other Runbørn… or take their runes by force. The path stretching out before them is soaked in blood… Will they sacrifice their identity to carry out this sacred mission?
Don’t ever stop dreaming, so that your dream can come true!

Whether you dream of coming up with some life-improving inventions or of creating unique imaginary worlds, whether you’d like to explore faraway lands or merely to take care of your loved ones, your dream is unique and valuable. With a bit of nurturing and confidence, it will grow alongside you, be your friend, and push you to keep going. Just as you carried your dream inside of you, it will also carry you through life!

Founded in 2009, Kilowatt is devoted to creating beautiful, meaningful children’s books that are fresh and playful. Our goal is to publish books that grow with their readers, encouraging them to never stop asking questions, discovering new things, laughing, and dreaming. We are committed to making a positive impact with our books and do not hesitate to stray from the beaten track, taking chances on talented young authors and illustrators, and tackling vital yet unjustly overlooked topics. Children have many questions, and we want to involve them in the conversation in a smart way.

Borders
Frontières
Karim RESSOUNI-DEMIQUEUX, Karine MAINCENT

A story about borders accessible for all. An ambitious text with scholarly and vibrant illustrations.

Since when have borders existed? Why do they separate us? Over time, notions of property, the State, and nations have evolved, always marked by questions revolving around borders. This exceptional non-fiction book considers their divisive nature in order to better understand their role and importance in history, geography, and sociology. The text alternates between information and focus points, adding precisions or hints of humor.

The Two Wolves
Les deux loups
Madeline ROTH, Pascale BREYSSE

Spellbinding illustrations for this tale inspired by a Cherokee story.

Nita loves his little sister, but he also hates her. His heart is full of contradicting emotions. So his grandfather tells him the story of the two wolves fighting within us: one represents love, sincerity, and light while the other is pride, anger, and jealousy. Nita is convinced that he only wants to live with the wolf of light, but his grandfather explains that the other wolf also contributes tenacity, ambition, and pride. Balance is essential for living in harmony with ourselves.

Here

Séverine DUCHESNE

Between Here and There, everything is so different yet so similar. A playful and funny book that can be read in both directions.

Here is a book to be read in both directions. Here is a story about two birds, each with their own home. Each “Here” is different, and yet, their daily lives are quite similar: meals, conversations with friends, and cozy nights in their nests. But what will happen when these two birds meet, cohabitate, and learn to get to know one another better?
Rescue at the Svalbard Seed Vault!
Ça barde au Svalbard !
Joëlle VEYRENÇ, Arnaud NEBBACHE

A graphic novel that uses an investigation and humor to raise ecological awareness.
Every summer, Manon spends her holidays with her cousin Alvida in Norway, in Tromsø. This year, equipped with their bunny hats and walkie-talkies, they overhear a very strange conversation... The global seed vault in Svalbard is in danger! The investigation is on to save the vault and stop the villains.
The 5th title in the "Graphic investigations" collection.

Get Dressed
S’habiller
Louna DESVAUX

What do our clothes say about us, our age, gender, culture, and means?
We get dressed every morning. Clothes protect us from the elements and danger, and they present us to the outside world and help us to feel good about ourselves! Our clothes also express messages and convictions that embody our ideas. A book that retraces the history of clothes and a reflection on related contemporary subjects: ecology, inclusivity, equality, etc.
The 6th title in the "About..." collection.
A Nobel Prize laureate in Economics, Esther Duflo tackles themes related to poverty in this series in order to talk about it simply with children.

The characters could be from Africa, Asia, or South America, but instead they live in an imaginary village created by Cheyenne Olivier. In these books, children will discover the characters’ daily lives and difficulties. An opportunity to show other stories and images of poverty, far from the prejudices, myths, and caricatures to which the poor are too often subjected. These books invite us to think and talk about poverty, a subject that concerns us all.
The Little Water Lily Spy
La petite espionne des Nymphéas
Béatrice FONTANEL, Alexandra HUARD

Follow this little spy and discover the Water Lilies and Monet’s work like you’ve never seen it before!

“Shortly before sunrise, birds began to chirp. Dawn blew its fresh breath over the pond, which exhaled mysterious puffs of smoke. There I saw the water lilies, those small botanical clocks that float on the water, delicately open their porcelain petals.” Thus starts the book. But who is this little spy who has an unobstructed view over the whole house and the garden? Discover Claude Monet at work from up close, like you’ve never seen him before.

Emilie CHAZERAND, Amandine PIU

Alone we are strong, together we are invincible...

Alone we dream, together we imagine...

Alone we count, together we share . . .

Thanks to a system of cut-outs on each page, this beautiful album alternates between highlighting details (a button, a bee, some coloured pencils) and a wealth of illustrations by Amandine PIU.

All of this is supported by Emilie Chazerand’s poetic and powerful writing that tackles an essential theme: collective intelligence and the power of living together.

A tender picture book with little windows opening onto the strength and beauty of being together.

Cetaceans
Cétacés
Amandine DELAUNAY

A breathtaking encounter with the giants of the sea.
An astoundingly beautiful book about these animals that never cease to amaze due to their unusual morphology, intelligence, and sociability. This dive into the cetacean world is both well-documented and fascinating. From their ancestors to their wild records, by way of their reproduction, communication, migration, sleep, and whale song, this wealth of information is enhanced by spectacular illustrations.

Bambi, the True Story
Bambi, la véritable histoire
Michael CAILLOUX, Felix SALTEN, Michel LARRIEU

For the novel’s 100th anniversary, Delachaux & Niestlé invite you to rediscover the story of Bambi, adapted from the work by Felix Salten.
This beautiful book retraces the story of Bambi, a fawn who discovers the reality of life in the woods after his mother’s death. Unlike the Disney adaptation in which nature is kind, beauty and harmony reign between the species, and the only real danger comes from Man, the real story of Bambi describes a forest full of hunger, danger, and competition. Published 100 years ago, this text’s message is still relevant, evoking the impact of humans on nature in general and biodiversity in particular.

The Rainbow Catcher
Arc-en-ciéliste
Cédric MAYEN, Laura IORIO, Roberto RICCI

A fantastic and colorful encounter between science and magic!

Hayden is a young warlord with big dreams but little money, who is convinced that he can regain his family’s fame and fortune by finding the mythical pots of gold at the end of the rainbow. Then his father returns crippled from a battle in Aquitaine and asks Hayden to take his place and to continue his spying activities and his trade in counterfeit money. Hayden is less than excited by this idea until his father tells him that there are lots of rainbows in this part of southwest France.

Goupile la sorcière #1 : le mystère des rochers qui poussent
Ongoing series
MILENA

The witch Goupile and her apprentice Arthur like their tea piping hot, reading by the fire, and above all lending a helping hand to those in need.

Goupile and her apprentice Arthur love their hot tea, reading by the fire, and above all lending a helping hand to those in need, like their neighbor, the Hémissaire goat, who is haunted by a striking spirit at night, preventing him from growing his fine heads of lettuce during the day. While solving this mystery, Goupile and Arthur discover a strange blue rock that grows and seems to have been created by black magic. To find the answers they seek, they head for the great library.
Ever since he was a little boy, Hugo has dreamt of becoming a Musketeer. Alone, he courageously makes the trip to Paris to join the Cadets.

The successful duo Hélène Delforge and Quentin Gréban (whose titles Mum, In Love, and Dad have met with worldwide success in more than 30 languages) is back for the first time with an original work of fiction. Inspired by the 17th-century Musketeers in Paris, The Shadow Musketeers takes us on an adventure in which Dumas’ world meets fairy-tale fantasy.
The day of the school play is almost here! In his bedroom, Jacques rehearses every night. But what if... his role is not important enough?

A rite of passage for many children, the school play can be the first time a child confronts stage fright and the scrutiny of an audience. A picture book about trusting yourself and learning that each role and each person is unique and valuable. When you’re all in the same boat, it’s better to help each other out.

So What?

Et alors?
Sonia COUDERT, Grégoire MABIRE

On the school playground, Basil lashes out at a different kid every day. No one dares stand up to him, until the day a new student arrives... A story that demonstrates the importance of paying attention to what certain children endure at school. A picture book for becoming aware that words can be defensive as well as aggressive. The important thing is learning how to use them. When confronted with a problem, sometimes all it takes is a bit of momentum to get things moving.
Yes Day
La journée du oui
Sonia COUDERT, Marie-Aline BAWIN

It’s Yes Day! Mum will say yes to whatever Tim and Clara want to do. The real risk is realizing that when Mum says no, there is definitely a reason.

Boundaries put to the test by children... With gentle humor, this picture book helps children understand the importance of “No.” A story for all children who dream of hearing their parents say yes to everything!

Ding Dong
Olivier DUPIN, Laurent SIMON

“Dad, there’s a giant gorilla outside!”
Every day, all day, Yana tells tall tales. Grandma even thinks her granddaughter is... a compulsive liar!

This picture book shows in a humorous way that it is not always easy for a child to be taken seriously by adults. Adult-child communication is complicated: what is reality for one is not for the other. An invitation to reconnect with the rich and colorful world of children’s imagination.

Zephyr and Frisounet go on holiday and discover wonderful worlds populated by legendary characters. An extraordinary adventure in 16 tableaux!

Zephyr and Frisounet are on holiday on a cruise. On the day of the excursion, they rescue a baby sea monster stuck in a net. To thank them, he takes them to Scotland to meet the Loch Ness monster, who plays water slides. From there, they visit a haunted castle where they are thrown into an enchanted forest. Then they visit the center of the Earth and the Underworld, and emerge in Japan, populated by hundreds of yokai. They then cross paths with dragons before entering Aladdin’s magic lamp...
With sumptuous artwork, poetic shapes, and a narrow palate of colors, the acclaimed Icinori duo invites children to look at the world around them anew.

“Thank you Alarm Clock, thank you Soap, thank you Shoes…” This book starts as a word book with an original angle: a list of simple things from our daily lives, to remind us that we should be grateful for them. Each element leads to another, soon forming the action-packed story of a fearless adventurer as he crosses the sea, jumps from an airplane, or meets wild beasts in the jungle... Both a word book of things for which we should be thankful and a thrilling outdoor trip.
Step into the forest at nighttime and discover the gripping life that escapes our daytime gaze!

A child recounts how one evening, at nightfall, she went into the forest, and shares what she saw there: a squirrel, a hare, a badger, a deer family... and a massive wild boar who turned toward her and came nearer.

After this captivating expedition during which the reader experiences a wide range of emotions, from fascination to fear, the author explains how to turn a piece of burnt wood into charcoal and presents the tools she used to make the book. A captivating workshop about nature and art!

A fascinating book about children’s collections in which Fanny Dreyer confirms her immense talent as an illustrator.

Here, seven children share their collections. Whether quite common, like Bastien’s flowers, or more original, like Omar’s collection of Autumn Things, they are all very important to their owners. Each collection is the result of a heritage, a taste, or a need, and is the source of much joy for the collectors: the pleasure to seek, organize, and take care of their own little treasures. The last chapter takes us to Japan, where contemporary artist Christian Boltanski collects... heartbeats.

An enthralling book about the collective madness of carnivals in 10 countries!

This nonfiction book showcases 10 carnivals that still exist today. This lively, vibrant celebration, which takes place around the world, has many faces: traditional in Binche, spectacular in Rio de Janeiro, dancing in Cayenne… For each, we discover the music, dances, characters, and traditions. Through the history of these masked parties, the book also invites us to explore broader themes: migration, colonization, slavery, social norms, and relationships between dominants and subordinates.

The Miniminimus

Half-animals, half-plants, the Miniminimus are tiny, but they are many… and they live on a very small island. To make up for the lack of space, society encourages restrictions and respects those who take up minimal space. One day, it becomes impossible for all the Miniminimus to stay on the island. They thus meet other creatures, the Maximaximus, who have an opposite way of life, sleeping in enormous houses and eating food bigger than them. But do peace and happiness lie in size and profusion?
An important series to grasp abstract concepts with sweetness and creativity.

"How does nature taste? It can be...

Peter looks at the incoming storm. He’s hopeful: their supplies are running low. But this time, the shipwreck also brings Agatha, a survivor...

The wind is blowing hard along the coast. Peter looks up at the sky. He does not fear the imminent storm. In fact, he feels hopeful, because the kitchen cupboards have been desperately empty these last few days. Whenever there’s a storm, Peter and Grandpa hope a boat will sink so they can replenish their food stores and fill their bellies. But one day, a young girl survives the wreck. Nothing will ever be the same.

A perfect tribute to all bookworms and cat lovers.

Horse and the Open Sea
Cheval
Ronald CURCHOD

A poetic ode to contemplation and taking time.
One morning, someone said my name: Horse. Horse sets off along the animals’ trail, following a river that gets wider and wider and leads all the way to the sea. A child joins him. Horse and the child walk together by the river until, one beautiful morning, they come to the sea. Horse is a poetic journey through nature, illustrated by Ronald Curchod’s magnificent and generous images in traditional tempera paints. A book for all horse lovers and children to discover nature and living things.

The story of a Kangaroo who’s going to be a Dad, but refuses to be a male boxer like everyone else.

All male kangaroos learn to box... But this kangaroo always has better things to do... like daydreaming or gardening. One day, he finally has a real excuse: his beloved is expecting a baby, and he has to stay by her side! As for the boxing match, in the end his partner goes in his place; she has always dreamed of being a champion. Which gives the kangaroo the opportunity to give birth... to a book for his baby!

Rue du monde, an independent publisher of children’s literature founded in 1996 by Alain Serres, creates books to “question and imagine the world.” Our original approach combines a citizen’s perspective with openness to other cultures to form a springboard for the imagination. From the start, we have worked with both established and young talented artists. We believe children are smart, sensitive critical thinkers, and our books reflect that, often giving pride of place to original and colorful illustrations that open young readers’ eyes and awaken their creativity.

I'm Allowed to Like Books (and Chocolate!)

J'ai le droit d'aimer les livres (et le chocolat !)
Alain SERRES, Aurélia FRONTY

The pleasure of reading explained to children... without losing sight of another great source of joy in life: chocolate!

This lively and happy book discusses the joy of reading, exhausting your grandmother by making her read the same book 33 times in a row, or borrowing new books from your friends... You can even enjoy a book at the library without knowing how to read! But let's not forget about another source of happiness: chocolate! Just like with books, once you get a taste, you always want a bit more!

A Japanese Childhood #3: Momoko’s Friends

Une enfance japonaise #3 : Les amis de Momoko
Ongoing series, 4th title to be published in 2024

Here are four new stories that Kotimi took from her childhood in Tokyo in the 1970s. We thus experience Hanami, when the cherry trees blossom. Then it’s time to go back to school, with the fear of losing friends and the joy of making new ones. These stories are acidic and sometimes direct, like another story in which we follow Momoko to the special center where Miyuki, her little handicapped sister, is also going back to school...

A Japanese Childhood #4: Momoko’s Friends

Une enfance japonaise #4 : Les amis de Momoko
Ongoing series, 5th title to be published in 2024

Four sensitive stories that bring both childhood and Japan to life.
Tales of Bears and Wolves from All Over the World

Les contes des ours et des loups du monde entier

Patrick FISCHMANN, Bruno PILORGET

Bears and wolves all over the world have much to say to human children!

19 tales and legends that celebrate the emblematic figures of the bear and the wolf. Fear, strength, power, and poetry meet popular cultures with stories from Gypsy peoples, American Indians in North America, Russia, Mongolia, Alaska, Japan, and, of course, France.

Perfect for reading alone in bed or during a family evening of storytelling.

If You Look at the Earth Long Enough

Si tu regardes longtemps la terre

Jean-Pierre SIMÉON, Laurent CORVAISIER

If you look at the Earth long enough... you’ll see it as a book uniting children and grownups, painting and nature.

Here are 50 sensitive thoughts that came to Jean-Pierre Siméon while he was walking through flamboyant landscapes: “We should apologize to all the trees we’ve forgotten to greet.”

In the background, superb paintings by Laurent Corvaisier, spectacular and expressive.

Which one of these creators gives the other the greatest gift? In truth, the gift is for the readers of all ages!
A unique creation designed by Élo – the perfect gift to welcome babies to a world of softness!

The artist Élo dreamt up a book that can be read to children from birth, a “little moment” to share with grownups, a comforting and poetic parenthesis. Throughout the pages, the reader follows the steps in a day, between sleeping and wakefulness, rocked to the rhythm of a melodious nursery rhyme. The book becomes a place for the senses, discovery, and play, both a word book and a story to tell.
An ingenuous search for lost time to discover and contemplate, and an invitation to listen to the sweet music of two friends’ memories.

What is this elusive and distant memory floating in Jacominus’s head when he wakes up from his nap? In his twilight years, sitting in his garden, he just knows that it was something wonderful. He thus dives back into his past. Memory after memory, along with the help and encouragement of his longtime friend Policarpe, he gradually travels through time. In the end, he rediscovers not one, but five wonderful things, all equally precious, which he will enjoy alongside his friend.
Such a Good Sport!
Il va y avoir du sport!

Philippe NESSMAN, Laura LION

The House Underneath
La maison sous la maison

Émilie CHAZERAND, Marion ARBONA

The funniest book ever written about sports – and the perfect opportunity to get ready for the 2024 Olympic Games!

A book to share as a family or at school starting at age 6, full of anecdotes, portraits, records, and amazing information about the history of sports and the Olympics. Very accurate yet funny and off-the-wall, with irresistible drawings by Laura Lion, who met with great success with Quand les cochons voleront. Discover the evolution of the rules, uniforms, cheating, and relationships to one’s body or to danger... But first of all, what’s a sport?

An adventure full of surprises and tenderness that opens up both the imagination and the mind.

11-year-old Albertine is rather transparent and fragile, unlike the rest of her family members, who are full of color and fancy. Their latest whim: this strange house to which her mother decided to move. A fairy-tale house for children, teeming with mysteries in the basement and attic. And in the basement, as it just so happens...

We are all someone’s monster. An original hybrid and majestic book, halfway between a graphic novel and an illustrated book.

When a traveling circus comes to his village, the young Otto goes, intrigued by the promise of a terrifying beast, a real Monster! But under the circus tent, when the curtain rises, everyone is surprised—the audience and reader alike. The monster is a young human and Otto is a little furry “monstrous” creature!

Halfway between a graphic novel and an illustrated novel, an uncategorizable book of dazzling poetry that reminds us that we are all someone’s monster.
Four stories full of tenderness and imagination with an endearing heroine.

In this collection of four stories, little Piloursine plunges us into her funny and poetic daily life, where each day is a fabulous adventure: she goes fishing, heads out on a journey, explores the yard, and celebrates her birthday. Whether she’s accidentally catching a mermaid, traveling on a panther’s back, growing giant strawberries, or planning the most magical of celebrations, Piloursine knows how to spread joy around her.

Beautiful Encounters

Les beaux rendez-vous

Véronique JOFFRE

A book to savor each of the beautiful encounters that nature offers over the course of the year...

Celebrate the newborns in spring, taste freshly picked cherries in the summer, enjoy an autumn stroll, pull out your winter coat when it starts to get chilly... Each season has its encounters and long-awaited reunions. Like an almanac, this book invites the reader to dive into nature, a living and moving nature, a playground for everyone: animals and humans, in cities and the countryside, young and old.

Cargo Paradise
Cargo Paradis
Sandrine BONINI

A fantastic post-apocalyptic novel with rich illustrations, bringing together 2001: A Space Odyssey and Journey to the Center of the Earth.
When life on the surface of our planet becomes impossible, an underground exploration mission is launched to find a new Eden. Aboard the Cargo Paradise, the children sent into the belly of the Earth have grown up and are now teenagers. Between strict protocols, prolonged periods of isolation, and emotional upheavals, tensions are rising amongst the crew members. Especially because they aren’t the only ones to have pierced Earth’s crust...

Rain doesn’t just fall.
No, rain doesn’t just fall! It plays, it laughs, it shivers. It takes on all the colors of life. Through her text, Elisa Rocchi shares the joy of rain with us. Her words will speak to young readers and adults, who will be reminded of childhood sensations. Through her sensitive brushstrokes, sometimes joyous and sometimes gray, but always lively and spirited, Giulia Torelli reveals the humor and poetry of her accomplice’s voice. But is her accomplice Elisa? Or the rain?
Marmottine, the Little Marmot Who Wasn't Scared of the Winter

Winter is coming, but Marmottine refuses to stay cooped up in her burrow!

Enough is enough! Harry the alligator is sick and tired of humans.

Harry the alligator has had it up to here with humans: they chase him, track him down to lock him up in a zoo, or hunt him for his hide. What’s more, they pollute his bayou with their garbage, waste, and chemical products. Is the water greener on the other side? Through a series of encounters, our alligator discovers that another species is also under threat: humans themselves! A fable told in rhyme and with plenty of humor about the fragility of our planet and its inhabitants.

Mirza se fait la malle

Marion SONET

A story without any words.

A magnificent park, an adorable old lady, her dog who is just as adorable (if a little crazy)... and some pigeons. When Mirza, who is jealous of the birds, starts to chase them, everything spins out of control. A story without any words, created by Marion Sonet with artwork between Oriental prints and autumn hues. Readers will delight in strolling down this park’s golden and brown pathways.

Around a Tree

Autour d’un arbre

Emilia CONESA

A great adventure, with next to nothing.

A great adventure with next to nothing: two twigs, six leaves, and some imagination. A tree is growing. The boy is playing around and with it, on the edge of the forest, in the heart of nature. Emilia Conesa attentively and tenderly observes her children’s secret games. Through linocut and monotype, she creates a poetic and enchanting world, with engraving techniques that give license to the unexpected.
